FUND REVIEW

The fund ended Q3 2023 with a market value of BWP 2.7 billion, increasing from the prior quarter, with normalisation of inflows into the fund. Within the confines of availing liquidity, the fund continued to provide enhanced returns amidst an environment of a much-improved market liquidity, with counterparties quoting lower.

MARKET OVERVIEW

Economic output grew by 3.4% y/y in Q2 2023, albeit slower than the upwardly revised 5.5% y/y growth realised in Q1 2023. On a quarter-on-quarter (q/q) basis, real GDP decreased by 3.5%, from an increase of 5.7% in the prior quarter. Compared to Q1 2023, the key drivers of economic output included the following: Finance, insurance, and pension funding (7.6% vs 2.8%); Mining & Quarrying (5.9% vs 10.8%); Accommodation & Food services (5.4% vs 5.4%) and Public Administration (5.3% vs 3.3%). Critically, the growth rate of the major mining and quarrying industry significantly declined from 10.8% in Q1 2023 to 5.9% in Q2 2023, despite the favourable base effects (the output of mining and quarrying fell by 3.5% in Q2 2022), showcasing the challenges bedevilling the mining sector.

Botswana's headline inflation increased by 2.0 percentage points to end September at 3.2%. Previously, the August inflation had undershot the medium-term objective range of 3-6% to stand at 1.2%. The September year-on-year inflation of 3.2% was driven by the following: Food and Non-Alcoholic Beverages (1.1%); Miscellaneous Goods & Services (0.7%) and Clothing & Footwear (0.3%). On a month-on-month basis, inflation increased by 1.7% driven by a 5.8% increase in the transport index following a rise in local fuel pump prices effected on 13 September 2023.

The Fleming Aggregate Bond Index (FABI) and the Botswana Bond Index (BBI) returned 2.1% and 1.6%, respectively during Q3 2023. We have continued to see a decline in government bond yields, as aggressive bidding took centre stage, with full allotment realized in the August and September auctions. The September auction compared to the June auction saw a decrease in yields as follows: BOTSG0527 (7.95% to 7.50%); BOTSG0635 (8.65% to 8.58%) and BOTSG0943 (8.90% to 8.75%).

OUTLOOK

As favourable base effects in transport costs continue to wane and local fuel pump prices come under pressure from supply-side factors, we anticipate an upside risk to inflation, although we expect it to remain within the Bank of Botswana's (BoB) objective range for the rest of the year. Food inflation is likely to remain elevated given the low agricultural yields from unfavourable climatic conditions and ongoing vegetable import ban.

We expect the central bank to maintain the monetary policy rate (MoPR) at 2.65% in 2023, which should boost credit demand and promote private consumption. With regards to the diamond industry, it faces various challenges encompassing declining demand, and escalating rivalry from the lab-grown diamond industry which might restrain diamond production during the upcoming quarters and restrain the expansion of exports, thus impacting fiscal revenues.

Market liquidity has improved and that has been reflected in the pricing as rates have continued to decline. We expect rates to continue their downward trend supported by increased government spending heading into next year's election and increased onshore domiciliation of pension fund monies with the initial compliance date slated for 31 December 2023. We expect to continue seeing a decline in government yields with corporate yields also following suit, but we expect the persistence of positive real yields given the moderate inflation levels.
